

Voluntary SQF Certification: Fox Ledge produces safe, quality spring water

Fox Ledge Spring Water has successfully completed SQF Level 3 Certification, which includes Comprehensive Food Safety and Quality Management Development. The Safe Quality Food (SQF) Program is a leading, global food safety and quality certification program and management system and is administered by the SQF Institute, a division of the Food Marketing Institute (FMI). SQF is an internationally recognized certification program and SQF certification meets government food safety and traceability requirements.

SQF Certification:

The Quality Management System of Fox Ledge, Inc. - Honesdale is registered as meeting the requirements of the SQF 2000^{CM} Code: Level 3.

Industry Regulation & Testing:

Bottled water is subject to federal, state and industry standards. Since 1938, the Food & Drug Administration (FDA) has strictly regulated bottled drinking water as a food product and is one of only five food products that have standards above those required of all foods. The FDA specifically states that bottled water must be processed, bottled, held, and transported under strict sanitary conditions. These quality control processes ensure the elimination of bacteria or unwanted chemicals. Fox Ledge Spring Water exceeds the state's requirements and performs hourly testing in its state of the art laboratory following NY, NJ and PA standards to ensure a quality product. Data from bacteriological analysis and test results for total dissolved solids, pH, turbidity, color and conductivity must be made available for FDA audit.

More About SQF Certification:

The SQF Program, a leading, global food safety and quality certification program and management system, is administered by the SQF Institute (SQFI), a division of the Food Marketing Institute (FMI). The SQF Certification program is recognized by the Global Food Safety Initiative (GFSI)*, part of a landmark agreement among global food retailers and food manufacturers on mutual acceptance of international food safety and quality systems.

For more information about bottled water service contact your Fox Ledge Spring Water representative.

Fox Ledge Spring Water

1432 Bethany Turnpike, Honesdale, PA 18431 | (800) 969-4369 | foxledge.com